Rechargeable battery pack keeps your smartphone or tablet going with solar top-ups

Combining a powerful rechargeable battery with a solar panel, Soulra's Boost Solar has the power to keep you talking, texting, surfing or gaming, wherever you are.

Charged using your phone or tablet's USB charger, and with a built-in solar panel to keep it topped up on the move, Boost Solar has enough capacity to charge a smartphone completely twice, and sufficient power to charge tablets, too.

Measuring just 15cm square and 1.5cm thick, and weighing just 330g Boost Solar is designed for long-lasting reliable power, wherever and whenever you need it. Its high-power 5000mAh lithium battery provides more than enough energy for an entire day out with your portable devices.

There's a four-LED instant readout to show you how the Boost Solar is charging, and how much energy is left, and for really long trips you can keep an optional spare battery pack with you, ready to snap into place in the solar charging cradle.

You can even run or charge your portable devices from one battery pack while another is charging in the solar charger – for truly seamless, non-stop power.

Boost Solar is designed to keep going wherever you are: its rugged rubberised exterior protects it from knock and bumps – it can even withstand a 1m drop – while its splashproofing will keep it safe everywhere from the beach to the beer-garden table!

A Micro USB port is provided for charging, while a 5V/2A USB output provides the power to your devices. Included with the Boost Solar, which comes in a choice of black or green are a USB adapter and Micro-USB cables.

The Soulra Boost Solar is available now at £79.99, with additional battery packs at £49.99.
